THE CLASS OF 2007

The Class of 2007 includes undergraduate students from Jamaica, the United Kingdom, Africa, the Bahamas, Canada, and Trinidad, and graduate students from Trinidad and Aruba. Twenty-seven states are represented, as are Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, but Floridians comprise the vast majority.

The College of Arts & Sciences is awarding 212 Bachelor degrees and 19 Master degrees. Most popular undergraduate majors are Psychology, Political Science, English, Communication Studies, and Biology.

The School of Business Administration is awarding 124 Bachelor degrees, with General Business, Finance, Marketing, and Management having the most majors. The School is awarding 63 graduate degrees.

The School of Music is graduating 44 students, evenly matched between Bachelor of Music and Bachelor of Music Education.

Approximately one-half of the graduates will be going to work after graduation, another third are headed to graduate or professional schools, and the rest pursuing other activities. Of those continuing their education, 72 have reported they will seek their Master's degree, 14 are headed to law school, and 9 are going to medical school.

Students have been admitted by highly selective graduate schools nationally, including Yale University, Boston University, Emory School of Law, The Julliard School, Vanderbilt University School of Medicine and Vanderbilt Divinity School, Texas Tech University, Western Carolina University, Wake Forest University, Bowling Green, University of Texas at Austin, George Washington University, Emerson College, Goethe Institute, University of Minnesota, and the University of Alabama, as well as by strong programs in Florida, including those at University of Florida, Florida State University, University of Central Florida, University of South Florida, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Florida International University, and Stetson.

Students entering the work force have found positions both near and far away. They will be teaching in Japan, Thailand and Korea, as well as within the United States; they will be creating software with Google in Washington State; working toward social justice with nonprofits in Washington, D.C.; playing semi-pro soccer; and starting their own businesses. Members of the Class of 2007 have been hired by organizations such as USTA Florida, Teach for America, Siemens, Target, Big Brother/Big Sisters, New Orleans Recovery School District, Adventist Health Systems Information Services, GM Capital Partners, Calloway Golf, Charles Schwab, James Moore, Deloitte, Ernst and Young, KPMG, and their alma mater, Stetson University.

MEDALLION

The President's Medallion, worn at all official academic occasions, was cast for the inauguration of former Stetson president John E. Johns in 1969. The medallion, cast in silver, is the university seal embraced by a wreath of laurel.

THE STETSON COLORS

The Stetson colors, Green and White, were adopted about the time as the Seal. At the first commencement the stage was decorated in Green and White. It is believed that the colors were chosen from the rich green of the orange trees and the pure white of the orange blossoms, a magnificent sight in the spring throughout Florida's great citrus belt. The color white represents purity and green signifies growth.

ACADEMIC ATTIRE

The traditional pageantry of an academic procession, such as the one which opens today's Commencement exercises, is one of the most impressive spectacles of our time. Its significance is attested by the array of handsome gowns and vividly colored hoods worn by members of the Board of Trustees, the Faculty, and other officers of the University. These display the symbols of scholarly attainment.

The earliest illustrations of gowns worn at Oxford University in England somewhat resemble cassocks worn by English teachers who found good use for the hood, or cowl, as protection against weather. The American system of academic heraldry indicates the level of a degree, the field of study in which it was earned, and the institution by which it was granted.

The American mortarboard, derived from the soft Oxford cap, is black. Its tassel, for holders of the bachelor's and master's degrees, is usually black, although gold tassels may be worn by holders of doctoral degrees and heads of institutions. The tassel is worn on the right side of the cap by undergraduates, on the left by holders of bachelor's and higher degrees.

It is the hood which provides academic regalia its color and offers the most information about its wearer. The silk lining of the hood bears the color, or colors, of the degree-granting college or university; its velvet facing reveals the color assigned to each area of study. The doctor's gown may bear velvet trimming on the front and sleeves-such as dark blue for Doctors of Philosophy (Ph.D.). A few institutions, mostly overseas but some in this country, authorize the wearing of colored robes, departing from the traditional black and brightly displaying the official colors of the university.

GONFALONS

Gonfalons are thought to have originated in Western Europe during the middle ages, when such banners displayed the personal coat of arms or ensign of a nobleman and were used as war flags hung from a horizontal bar and carried on a staff or suspended from a knight's lance. As early as the twelfth century, they were commonly used at state and religious ceremonies, and such pageantry finds a place today in the academic ceremonies of many colleges and universities.

Stetson University proudly introduced gonfalons at the commencement ceremony on May 6, 2006. Prominently featuring the University Seal and the name of the respective college and school offering undergraduate programs of study, Stetson's gonfalons are richly hued in Stetson's colors of green and white, and accented by a luminous gold. The stately Elizabeth Hall cupola graces each gonfalon as a symbol of our heritage. The student bearers (gonfaloniers) are outstanding members of the graduating class, who have been selected by their Deans for this honor.

THE UNIVERSITY SEAL

The circular seal of Stetson University was first adopted between 1889 and 1891, about the time the name of the institution was changed from DeLand College to John B. Stetson University. It first appeared on a university catalog in 1891. The drawing was by an artist-in-residence and approved by President Forbes, Henry DeLand and John B. Stetson, as well as by the Board of Trustees. The Latin Motto, "Pro Deo et Veritate," is translated "For God and Truth." The Lamp, signifying the Light of Truth, rests on the Book of Wisdom.

MACE

Maces were originally war instruments used for organizing mayhem but from the 13th century, have been carried by the sergeant-at-arms of educational and corporate entities. In the European and in the older American universities, the mace symbolizes the dignity and authority of the president and the Board of Trustees.

Stetson's mace, designed by Episcopalian Canon Edward Nason West of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, New York, was presented to President J. Ollie Edmunds in 1956.

The mace is described here by the artist, Daniel Spencer, master gold and silversmith of William Comyns & Sons of London.

"Stetson's mace is designed so that anyone could easily place the university's geographic location and chartering power. The palm buds from Florida's state seal form a base for the head of the mace. The legend around the bowl makes the particular institution's motive clear. The crenulations constitute what is known as a "canting device" since they are a play on the Latin word "stet" meaning "may it stand." The anchor, heart and cross - repeated twice in ornamenting them - are taken from the seal of the City of DeLand. From the top of the mace rises the shield of the university. The mace takes its basic shape from the mace of the Baptist Long Parliament, thus signifying the Baptist roots of the university."

William Comyns & Sons was established in 1645 and examples of its craftwork can be found in St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey.

HERITAGE

Stetson University, Florida's first private university, was founded in 1883 by Henry A. DeLand, a New York philanthropist, as DeLand Academy. In 1887, the Legislature of the State of Florida enacted the Charter of DeLand University as an independent and autonomous institution of higher learning. The university name was changed in 1889 to honor John B. Stetson, the nationally known hat manufacturer who gave generously of his time and means to advance the quality and reputation of the institution, and who served, with Mr. DeLand and others, as a founding trustee of the university.

The first charter stated the object of the university should be "to promote the general interests of education, and to qualify its students to engage in the learned professions or other employments of society, and to discharge honorably and usefully the various duties of life."

Stetson's first president, Dr. John F. Forbes, clearly described the commitment to teaching which has been a hallmark of the university throughout its history:

"Buildings, libraries and apparatus are good and give added power, but the vital contact of students with a vigorous and stimulating mind and heart - this is the sine qua non of a successful education... The most important thing is to find men and women of large heart and mind, apt to teach and full of enthusiasm and stimulating power... to develop in the student the habit of independent judgment - of investigating statements and principles for oneself, and thus for oneself discover their truth or falsity."

MISSION

Our mission at Stetson University is to provide an excellent education in a creative community where learning and values meet, and to foster in students the qualities of mind and heart that will prepare them to reach their full potential as informed citizens of local communities and the world.

At Stetson, the art of teaching is practiced through programs solidly grounded in a tradition of liberal learning that stimulates critical thinking, imaginative inquiry, creative expression, and lively intellectual debate. The art of learning is enhanced through small interactive classes, close student-faculty alliances, and collaborative approaches that provide the foundation for rewarding careers and advanced study in selective graduate and professional programs. We embrace diverse methodologies to foster effective communication, information and technological literacy, and aesthetic appreciation. We encourage the development of informed convictions, independent judgment, and lifelong commitments to learning that are characteristic features of the enlightened citizen. In bringing together learning and values, the University encourages all of its members to demonstrate personal integrity; to develop an appreciation for the spiritual dimension of life; to embrace leadership in an increasingly complex, interdependent, and technological world; and to commit to active forms of social responsibility.

David B. Rinker

DOCTOR OF LAWS

A leader in both business and education, Dr. David B. Rinker of Atlantis is the founder and owner, with his wife Leighan, of Paradox Properties, Inc. a Palm Beach County investment company. He received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Management from the School of Business Administration in 1962.

Deeply concerned about education, he went on to earn a Ph.D. in Educational Leadership from Florida Atlantic University and worked for many years with the Lake Worth Christian School in Lantana, beginning and directing its foreign studies program. He led students in experiential learning programs all over the world, including Australia, Africa and Antarctica, and has worked as a consultant in experiential education.

Also chair of the Marshall E. Rinker, Sr. Foundation, he is a member of the second of three generations of the Rinker family that have been involved in the life and development of Stetson University. He has served on Stetson's Board of Trustees since 1987, including two terms as chair; and also lent his expertise to the College of Arts and Sciences as a member of its Board of Advisors.

GRADUATION PLEDGE Initiated by the Class of 2002 and the Student Government Association Stetson University

This voluntary commitment is part of a national movement in which college graduates sign a pledge to "lead responsible lives." Seniors who have signed the Stetson University pledge wear green and gold ribbons at Commencement to indicate their intention to live thoughtfully and responsibly, drawing on values they have developed here as they move forward in life and work:

I acknowledge the impact of my decisions on others, on society, and on the environment. As I graduate from Stetson University and begin advanced study or my life's work, I pledge to consider the social, spiritual, and environmental consequences of my actions. As I make daily choices, I will do my best to enhance the lives of others, to deepen my understanding of the spiritual dimension of human life, and to demonstrate respect for the natural world.
